TAKE QUALITY TO HEART IN SOUTH SURREY

by JANINE MACKIE

where landscaping and mature evergreens integrate for a private setting that's also walking distance to the gym, grocery store and coffee shops.

While it's easy to get swept away by Abbey Road's modern finishes, contemporary showhome and classic Georgian architecture, it's the assurance of an honest work ethic and seeing the difference true quality makes, that is proving to be the real deciding factor for recent buyers.

"When you're buying a home you should always look for the best you can afford, and here buyers are getting that amazing combination of a great location, quality construction by a trusted builder, and finishes that are second-to-none," says sales manager Tara Desmond. "Those that have shopped around see the difference right away – nicely cased doors, abundance of pot lights, sleek quartz countertops and a natural-gas range, that are all standard finishes."

Brad Hughes, builder

"The symbol of quality," is more than a marketing tagline for local home builder Brad Hughes of Park Ridge Homes, now building the exclusive Abbey Road development in partnership with Woodbridge Homes. Whether his seasoned team of professionals is building a $1-million custom home or a $400,000 townhome, attention to detail, superior building materials, quality control and attentive customer service are consistent.

"For every one of our projects, it's all plywood construction – floor, ceiling, roof and walls. Never particle board," explains Hughes. "We build for a discerning client and strive to have each home perfect when homebuyers move in. We educate them how to look after their home, and offer attentive customer service two, five, even 10 years down the road."
